

Mons and Armistice Are Inseparable Events in Minds of Canadians

Citizens of Mons Ever Grateful to Their Liberators

Veteran Tells Story of Capture of City
Where War Began and Ended for Canadian Troops

In the Canadian mind Armistice Day and Mons are inseparable. It is 20 years since patrols of the 7th Brigade stole like wraiths through the silent streets of Mons, in dead of night; since a city which for four long years had been held in thrall, awoke to its deliverance on November 11, 1918. Year after year the grateful citizens of Mons have remembered their liberators: the memory of Canada is kept green by the kindly people of that ancient city.

Here the Great War began, and here it ended. The narrative of Mons dated from August 22, 1914, when, along the dusty road near Calais, a couple of miles from Mons, a troop of the 4th (Royal Irish) Dragoon Guards galloped against a like force of German cavalrymen, belonging to the 6th Cuirassiers. This was the first clash of the war.

The liberation of the city is part of the history of Canada, and more intimately is it linked with the 7th Brigade, which consisted of the Royal Canadian Regiment, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the 4th (Black Watch) and the 4th (Edmonton) Battalion.

TELLS VIVID STORY
Much has been written of the dramatic hours prior to the release of Mons from its long period of hardship. The story is told here vividly by C. Beresford Topp, D.S.O., M.C., historian of the 4th Battalion, and is reprinted from "The Legionary," official organ of the Canadian Legion.

There was no organized assault on Mons and the story of its capture through dramatic is not in any sense one of a spectacular charge across the open under heavy fire. Colonel Topp has written:

"The enemy position on the night of November 10th consisted only of a screen of snipers and machine guns posted in upper rooms of houses and other points from which they could command the roads and approaches. The advance began in daylight and the Highlanders at once came under fire, particularly from machine guns, and it was apparent that an attempt to force an entrance to the city by daylight would be costly. Accordingly further movement was delayed until dusk, and eventually the capture of Mons was effected by one platoon of D Company which walked across the railway yard and entered the city without firing a shot."

"The record of the movements of D Company is typical of the nature of the operation. Pushing out from Jemappes at 10:30 on the morning of November 10, the Company followed the main Jemappes-Mons road and on reaching Company headquarters of the P.C.L.I. Company to be relieved, which was established in the basement of a brewery, Captain Grattey ascertained the disposition of the Patricia from the Company Commander, Captain White (Capt. Alfred C. White, M.C., who, as

MACHINE GUN FIRE

"At 1 o'clock the advance was continued and was taken through the brewery yard the Company was observed by the enemy and came under intermittent shell fire and later machine gun fire as the Company came within range. The Company first came under this fire about 2:30 and continued the advance under fire until 4:30. It was during this period that the only casualties sustained in the forward area occurred. Lance-Corporal Jones and Private Mills having been killed, while one officer, Lieut. M. McIlroy, and nine other ranks were wounded. Having received instructions that the advance would be made with utmost caution, Captain Grattey decided that further ground could not be made good by daylight and placed his men under cover in houses where they remained until dusk."

"Meanwhile scouts were sent out to ascertain if possible the strength of the enemy and the position of his machine gun posts. The scouts got forward steadily but very slowly, working through gardens, scrambling over walls brought a sharp burst of fire. It was therefore decided to effect an entrance on the extreme left of the Company front by working along the southern edge of the Canal-Mons Canal, the object being to outflank machine guns operating on the right. This movement was most skilfully and successfully carried out by 9 p.m. No. 14 Platoon had established two posts on the Canal in commanding positions from which covering fire could be brought to bear on the machine gun positions on the right, all of which had been carefully located."

"At 10 o'clock Captain Grattey, with No. 16 Platoon under Lieut. D. M. Handy, pushed continually forward under cover of two Lewis guns, crossed the railway tracks, passed through the railway yard and entered the city at a point near the station where a post was established by 11 o'clock. The enemy machine guns were still believed to be covering the main approaches to the city, and Captain Grattey having only a handful of men with him immediately sent for the remaining platoons. By midnight the whole of D Company was in Mons and the machine guns on the right were apparently cut off."

MIDNIGHT ATTACK

"The whole city was exceedingly quiet; there was no movement, no evidence of the presence of any civilians and not a shot was fired. The only sound was the crackling of the flames in several burnt buildings which had been set alight by shell fire. Having disposed the Company in the neighborhood of the station, Captain Grattey, accompanied by Sergt. Gibson, went carefully forward through the deserted streets and reached a point half-way through the Grande Place without meeting opposition of any description."

"Concluding that the city had been evacuated, Grattey returned to the Company, arriving at 1 o'clock on the morning of November 11th. At once establishing a communication with 1st Battalion M.C., Grattey then proceeded to push forward through the whole of the city and to make good the objective positions on the high ground to the east. No. 14 Platoon under Capt. J. C. Stewart, M.C., was sent through the centre of the city; No. 15 Platoon under Company Sergeant-Major Young took the Boulevard to the north where the enemy machine gun posts which had held up the advance in the afternoon. All three platoons were ordered to establish touch in the Place de Flandres at the eastern edge of the city. No. 12 Platoon was held in reserve with Company Headquarters. "While these operations were being carried on by D Company as the left, A Company on the right met with determined opposition. On the way up during the afternoon it came under shell fire and later under machine gun fire, also losing two men killed,

WEARING POPPY IS TRIBUTE TO CANADA'S DEAD

Every Canadian Should Wear a Poppy for Remembrance

"Poppy Day" has become a recognized institution in Canadian life since the war and there is no effort more worthy of the support of every man and woman in our dominion. The report that the campaign has "gone over" with special success in Edmonton again this year is but further indication that Edmontonians have recognized the worthiness of the cause.

The manufacturing of the Poppies and Wreaths is done entirely by returned men whose war disabilities make it impossible for them to compete on the labor market under the high-speed, high-pressure machine system we have today. It provides hundreds of these men, not only with livelihood, but with a useful occupation which will enable them to forget the horrors they suffered in the "war to end wars."

SYMBOL OF SACRIFICE

The proceeds of the sale of Poppies is all used—there is no administration charges made against this fund—for the aid of ex-servicemen, and the widows and children and dependents of ex-servicemen and men who never returned.

The wearing of this little emblem of suffering serves as a constant reminder to the men and women and children of Canada today of the suffering and sacrifice of the 600,000 Canadians who went overseas to fight for "right and democracy."

It is a tribute to the 62,000 Canadians who lie in unmarked graves on the battlefields of Flanders and all Europe where the poppies themselves raise their bleeding petals between the crosses. To buy one is the least decent people can do to pay their debt of honor to the 170,000 ex-service men who carried the scars of battle home.

AFTERMATH

"IF YE BREAK FAITH . . . WE SHALL NOT SLEEP!"

Over the crimsoned field where poppies blow
A grey mist hovers like a changing sorcery;
And voices bring a cry from out the mist:
"We sleep not, Comrades, do ye keep the faith!"

They gave their lives to make a better world,
Safe for the old, the helpless, and the young—
Safe for that wider brotherhood of man;
What of that victory so dearly won?

What is this for with whom we keep the quarrel?
What is this conflict that we must suppress?
What but the idol in the market-place—
The symbol of a nation's selfishness!

Is this remembering, that day by day
They who were with them "fetter to our doors"—
Beggings their humble still of daily bread—
The heroes—no, the victims of our war?

That day by day they toil the weary roads,
While little children starve, and women sigh—
Our granaries overflow with golden grain!
"What say ye, Comrades? Is the Torch held high?"

Far on Olympus, how the Gods must laugh!
"The torch still smokes the morning comes anon!"
We heed the golden grain—and fling the chaff!
"The poppies flourish—but our rest is gone!"

Private Digby and Private Bridgen. Both shelling and machine gun fire diminished during the evening and the Company with the assistance of the 24th Battery, C.F.A., which man-handled a gun close up to the forward area to engage the enemy machine guns, got successfully to the Canal bank.

"The bridges had been demolished, however, and the Company was not immediately able to effect a crossing. Soon after midnight a message was received that D Company had entered Mosa, whereupon Lieut. P. P. Hutchison led his platoon forward to one of the bridges, temporarily repaired it with planks and crossed in single file to the Boulevard encircling the city. Finding the streets deserted the men ran their rifles along the crilled windows of the cellars and in a few moments the street was filled with civilians. The Company

Canadian Broadcasting Commission to Have Special Program

In special tribute to Remembrance Day and the memory of those 62,000 Canadians who died on the battlefields of Europe in the years 1914-1918, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will carry on Friday an hour long program, dedicated to those who fought and died to make the world a better place to live in.

On Remembrance Day, the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, in collaboration with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will broadcast from 8:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir will bring a message from His Majesty The King and deliver it during this broadcast. Most impressive and imposing of the many war memorials in France is that to the soldiers of the Canadian Corps erected on the loftiest peak of Vimy Ridge. It was considered an "unconquerable" fortress until it was captured on April 9, 1917. On that day the four Canadian Divisions, in line, swept up the Ridge in the face of a monstrous and a hail of enemy fire and captured this most important fortress in a feat of arms unsurpassed in military history.

In Flanders' Fields

In Flanders' fields the poppies grow

Between the crosses, row on row,

That mark our place; and in the sky

The larks, still bravely singing, fly

Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago

We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,

Loved and were loved, and now we lie

In Flanders' fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe;

To you from failing hands we throw

The torch; be yours to hold it high

If ye break faith with us who die

We shall not sleep, though poppies grow

In Flanders' fields.

SHE didn't sleep that night. She told herself firmly that it was not because she was breaking her heart over Dwight Campbell. It was only because Jack Hanley had been so blasted right about him!

"You never have to tell me, Judy," said the girl, "but I'll tell you something good for lunch."

"It'll be Gumbo again," said Judy. Diane, as a very young girl, had lived in Gumbo, where her father was in charge of the station, and she was always boasting about how she had learned to make gumbo with practically nothing from the States—strictly island fare.

RAIL SERVICE IS NECESSITY SAYS MINISTER

Canadian National System Handicapped By Old Debts

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—Canadian are too prone to dwell on the cost of railway transportation, says C. D. Howe, minister of transport, said last night.

Addressing the 21st triennial conference of the railway Y.M.C.A. of North America, the minister expressed the opinion that Canadian railway systems, the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific, were inefficiently operated.

"Railway service is and probably always will be necessary to our national economy," he said. "Railways have a fundamental advantage in that they can move a ton of freight more cheaply than any other form of transportation, excepting the water carrier."

MAKE IMPROVEMENTS
The minister said that the railway system and operation have made considerable strides in speeding the delivery of freight, and adding to the comfort of passengers.

"The problem is one that requires the best efforts of those responsible for railway management, with the necessary expenditure of money to normal, and the growth of population is expected in a country like Canada," he said.

"The annual rail on the taxpayer for railway purposes should not exceed that amount."

"The cost of our railways is part of the public debt of Canada but their interest charges and operating cost constitute a subsidy of about $20,000,000 per annum for water transportation, to which must be added a large sum for aids to navigation, public docks and government dredging."

Youth Training Projects Making Good Progress In West Says Norman Rogers

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Youth training projects under joint direction of Dominion and Provincial governments are making encouraging progress in western Canada, Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of labour, said last night.

"I visited projects in all the western provinces and have been impressed particularly with the enthusiasm of the young people in training," the minister told newspapermen Wednesday.

The Dominion government allowed $1,000,000 for youth training in 1937-38, and in 1938-39, provincial governments to put up an equal amount. Last year 3,500 young people were in training to fit themselves for jobs. Of these engaged directly in vocational training as distinguished from physical training and home service training about 4,000, or about 25 per cent, were placed in employment on completion of their courses.

British Columbia had become the province with the largest number of trainees on the system, Mr. Rogers said. Mr. E. H. Hargrave, director of the physical training centres in the west coast centres and had 10 units established. British Columbia had 40 physical training centres, and Saskatchewan was following suit.

The substantial increase in vocational training in British Columbia for forest conservation, mining, agriculture, and other industries, carpentry, welding, electricity, and other trades.

General unemployment conditions in the west are improving, the minister said. There is marked improvement in Alberta and Manitoba following two successive good crops, but drought has discouraged many farmers in parts of Saskatchewan.

Sacrifices On Battlefields Are Recalled November 11

Rolling back the scroll of years for two decades and recalling that four-year period, 1914 to 1918, that stands out from any similar time, Edmonton residents on Friday will join with the entire nation, the British Empire and all Allied Nations in commemorating Remembrance Day, the twentieth anniversary of the bringing into effect of the Armistice, on November 11, 1918.

RULING CAUSES EXCITING STIR IN LAW CIRCLES

Judge States That Debt Act
Doesn't Affect Limitations of Legislation

By a ruling, too, reaching in effect, that the Debt Adjustment Act as now operating does not affect the working of the Statute of Limitations Act on debts owing by Alberta residents, Judge J. J. Mahaffy has caused some excitement in legal circles in Alberta.

This interpretation of the law was made in a case involving a claim for damages against a railway company, which was brought by a plaintiff who had been injured by a train.

In going over his judgment, handed down last Friday, Judge Mahaffy outlines the various Debt Adjustment Acts and their effect on the Statute of Limitations.

Section 11, was removed from the Act and a new section was added, which reads: "No action shall be brought against a railway company for damages caused by a train after the expiration of six years from the date of the accident."

The judgment was given in an appeal from a magistrate's decision in a small civil case at Innisfail.

Mr. D. C. Bury, Innisfail, appeared for the appellants, whose appeal was allowed by the judge, and Mr. E. F. Freeman, Innisfail, appeared for the respondents.

Blank Thursday, November 10, was higher than in 1937, according to figures released by the Edmonton office of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

A. R. Sweeney, deputy minister of agriculture, D. O. Longman, provincial field crops commissioner, and W. J. Edgar, in charge of livestock and youth training, will attend the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto as representatives of this province.

Mr. Sweeney has left for Lethbridge where he will attend the annual meeting of the provincial business and will discuss his colleagues to proceed to Toronto.

WESTERN CRICKET FIGHT WITH TRAMMELL HERE

City Cricket Figures Show Splendid Season

The 1938 season was quite a successful one, the weather having been mostly fair; consequently very few games were postponed, and for the first time in several years all teams completed their schedules. The Radial Railway team made a favorable showing this year and did much towards making the season one of pleasure to those participating in games with them.

The Legion were premiers of the league and won the "Press Cup," their performance being especially noteworthy in that they were only defeated once, when the R.C.M.P. were the victors. Their success was undoubtedly largely due to having a strong bowling side as well as being a well balanced team under capable captaincy of Doug Thomson.

There was but one point between Edmonton and R.C.M.P. for second place, while the Strathboms, who were fourth, were only one point behind the latter team, and were unfortunate in losing the services of A. C. P. Jones early in the season, due to ill health after he had made 48, 87 and 81 for them in two completed innings. Last year Arthur Jones was top of the league batting average and it is hoped will be able to play again next year.

The "Hove Cup" for Second Division was won by the Central Division, with a play-off with Truxmays.

At the Clarke Stadium the new pitch was used this season for the first time and due to an excellent catch of grass the playing field was in first class condition and a credit to the city. The league is fixing up a club house there and making other improvements, such as putting in sight screens.

The following table shows standings and performance of each team:

The "Hove Cup" for Second Division was won by the Central Division, with a play-off with Truxmays.

At the Clarke Stadium the new pitch was used this season for the first time and due to an excellent catch of grass the playing field was in first class condition and a credit to the city. The league is fixing up a club house there and making other improvements, such as putting in sight screens.

The following table shows standings and performance of each team:

Victory Will Boom Eddie to Near Peak

EDDIE WENSTOB, light heavy and heavyweight champion of western Canada and rated among the world's first ten light heavies, will get a fight here during the first week of December against the highly-rated Jack Trammell of Youngstown, Ohio, a fight in which victory will make Eddie a prominent challenger for the world's light heavyweight title that John Henry Lewis will soon have to vacate on account of his weight.

Promoter Fred Osborne admitted last night that he already had the major details settled for a 16-round bout here December 6 between Wenstob and Trammell, but that the formally signed contracts had not yet been received although the measures of both fighters had agreed to terms and conditions in letters.

This fight will be in line with the policy that Manager Bob Penman has set for Wenstob—fight the really mean something from now on. Promoter Fred Osborne is now heavily invested in the bout and is now building his major fight business in the Edmonton area. Wenstob will no longer be in against any but outstanding fighters with money to get in other places.

Trammell boasts a four record last night that he already had over a decade. All recognized record books list his ring victories. His name has been in the upper circle of fighters in the eastern United States for several years now. Informal arrangements with his manager, J. B. Basso, were completed last night by Osborne.

While Trammell is a heavyweight, Wenstob has jumped at the chance to meet him where the strict supervision of the Edmonton Boxing Commission assures an absolutely fair and square fight—something that last night was in other places.

Let's say Wenstob changed when he heard that Trammell had agreed to terms. "This will be a fight," he said, "I'll give something for me on the record books if I win it—and believe me I'll never be trying harder than when I start swapping punches with Trammell."

It would take half a column of type to list Trammell's complete record since he started his last fight in 1924. His last bout will give you an idea of his calibre. On December 6, 1935, in New York, Trammell won a decisive point victory over the classy Leonard Park, 25-10, in 10 rounds. In New York, Trammell handed the highly-rated Eddie Simms an attritional eight-round battle. On December 14, 1936, in Cleveland, Trammell fought Harry Quinn, 25-10, in 10 rounds. He's real ring class as Mr. Trammell.

Wenstob has now been working out here for nearly two weeks. He is still giving most of his attention to getting more hitting power in his right hand and is already showing a vast improvement over his form in the fight here when he won the western Canada heavyweight title by beating Jack Tobo decisively.
